Here is a collection that sparkles with individuality... the look of custom-made imported furniture...

This is "French—in the Country Manner," a comprehensive collection that captures the look, feel and spirit of 18th century rural French designs with their singular quality of vitality and vigor. This is furniture crafted to be practical in purpose, solid and sturdy . . . characterized by gently curving lines and shaped molded panels . . . enriched with bold wood carvings and deep distressing.

Its refreshing ornamentation and the charming simplicity of its contours combine to capture the authentic look of the original designs made by local craftsmen in the country districts of France.

Authenticity sets the tone of many decorative motifs including floral, shell and leaf carvings in high relief, open "chicken wire" or conventional metal grilles, the rush seat look, prominent and richly-carved panel moldings, authentically-reproduced hardware . . . all combine to capture the imagination and evoke enthusiasm from those persons knowledgeable of true rural French furniture.

In rich persimmon veneers with solid pecan and mahogany, the glowing patina and warm wood tones of many interesting and varied pieces will add special charm to your way of life.

WOODS and FINISHES

DEEP UMBER

Choice persimmon veneers with solid pecan and mahogany are enhanced by this dark, spice-brown finish that successfully captures the authentic look of rural French country furniture.

RUSTIQUE

A lighter, weathered-wood finish which lends itself so well to many of today's decorating schemes while retaining much of the old charm.

ROUGE ANCIEN

A bright rural red brick tone which is used as a special accent color on certain pieces as an optional choice.

One of today's most important design directions is the import look of French country furniture as authentically reproduced in this superb collection by Drexel. The carvings, finishes and decorative motifs are skillfully crafted with the look of the original old designs yet offer many functional features so in demand today. Special attention has been given to such details as spattering and distressing, wormhole patterning that runs through the moldings, the patina of finish and color that comes with age. As a result, "French—in the Country Manner" has an authentic look with the advantage of better, sturdier construction found in furniture by Drexel.
